- The Commercial Division’s Net Income for the first quarter 2010 amounted to $14.2 million, mainly driven by portfolio growth and the impact of an improved risk profile on provisions, compared to $11.8 million in the fourth quarter 2009, and $7.5 million in the first quarter 2009. - The Asset Management Division reported a Net Loss in the first quarter 2010 of $1.4 million, compared to Net Income of $0.6 million in the fourth quarter 2009, and Net Income of $8.2 million in the first quarter 2009. CEO's Comments

“The environment Bladex faced during the first quarter continued to reflect the combined impact of a gradual recovery in economic growth rates and the Region’s credit, improved liquidity levels and lower cost of funds, and risk levels that appear to have stabilized. Within this scenario, Bladex was quite pleased to see that, for the first time in four years, the seasonably weak January through March period recorded an expansion in average portfolio balances.

The careful re-leveraging of the Bank, based on a prudent expansion of Bladex's franchise to service the increasing numbers of Latin American companies doing business regionally, remains at the core of what the Bank has planned for 2010. In doing so, Bladex is operating with the benefit of a very strong capitalization that allows ample room for growth, along with an expanding Commercial Division team and footprint, developing opportunities in market niches where the Bank's competitive position is especially strong. The results of these efforts will take some time to fully bear fruit but, judging from the progress achieved in the previous three months, the trends are encouraging indeed. A larger portfolio will result in higher revenues, decreased concentrations and improved ROE levels.

The Treasury and Asset Management divisions struggled a bit during the quarter. From a medium term perspective, however, Bladex remains confident about their performance. The Asset Management Division has operated profitably in 12 out of 16 quarters since its inception in 2006, and has contributed a net of more than $43 million in Net Income to the Bank's results. Most importantly for the long term, the Fund's balances under management continue to gradually increase. For its part, the Treasury Division's results for the quarter were impacted by the valuation of interest rate swaps used to hedge the interest rate risk of the Bank's securities portfolio, a cost Bladex considers well worth paying.

In conclusion, Bladex possesses all of the elements needed to execute the strategy for the remainder of 2010, while we continue positioning the Bank for significantly improved results and value over the next few years."
